Sub: Invitation to all Members / Scientists / Policy Planners / Vice-Chancellors / Directors to the 48th Indian Social Science Congress, November 19–21, 2026, Hemchand Yadav Vishwavidyalaya, Durg (Chhattisgarh).

Dear Sir / Madam,

As you are aware, our university, in cooperation with Indian Institute of Technology, Bhilai, Chhattisgarh Swami Vivekanand Technical University, Bhilai, Shri Shankaracharya Professional University-Bhilai and the Pt. Ravishankar Shukla University, Raipur is organizing the 48th Indian Social Science Congress from November 19 to 21, 2026, at Durg. Complete details of the Congress are given in the enclosed Bulletin.

Of considerable national significance is the Congress's focus on 'Science Education and Research in Indian Languages'. The New National Education Policy 2026 also lays emphasis on this theme. Even after nearly eighty years of independence from colonial rule, our education and research continue to be conducted predominantly in English, leaving the people of our Democratic Republic dependent on imported science and technology.

We, therefore, need to deliberate on the challenge of educating our children, students and citizens in Indian languages, since people can truly excel only in a language they know well.

All branches of the Sciences of Nature, Human Society and allied disciplines are represented through 28 Subject Research Committees and 21 Interdisciplinary Thematic Panels. The Congress will also feature the XI All India Young Scientists' Convention, along with several National Seminars, Symposia and Public Lectures, addressing, among other themes, the education and development challenges faced by our people.

We are happy to cordially invite you, your colleagues and research students to present research papers and participate in the 48th Indian Social Science Congress.

Science is without any boundary and, is indivisible. Indian Social Science Congress, therefore, is indeed, science congress in true sense. Its focus is on 'Science of Nature-Human-Society'. Today it is the only such National Science Academy in the whole World.

XLVIII INDIAN SOCIAL SCIENCE CONGRESS

A NOTE ON FOCAL THEME

'Science Education and Research in Indian Languages'

Preamble

The Indian Social Science Academy (ISSA) has resolved to focus deliberations of 48th Indian Social Science Congress on 'Science Education and Research in Indian Languages' with a view to stimulating and flowering creative and innovative potentialities of young minds in Science and Technology for enabling peoples of India to be fully atmnirbhar and learn Science and Technology for enjoying higher quality of life - material, social and cultural while living in peace and social harmony.

Context

New Education Policy 2020, for the first time in the history of 80 years of independence and formation of Democratic Republic of India, seeks to do away with the British-borne Education Policy in English by introducing education in Indian languages. However, it does not state when and how education and research in English will be replaced by education and research in Indian languages. Nevertheless, the proposal for education and research in Indian languages ought to be welcomed by majority Indians in general and scientists in particular. All out nation-wide massive collective efforts ought to be made for its success.

Two major questions need to be addressed appropriately by all the stakeholders and concerned Central and State governments to initiate a viable innovative process of education and research in Indian languages for teaching science and technology like medical, engineering, pharmacy, architecture etc. and also subjects of humanities:

Firstly, India did not switch and adopt science, technology and subjects in humanities to be taught in Indian languages after independence in 1947. Prior to the takeover by the East India Company, India, indeed, had a good education and research system in place which were in local Indian languages and vernacular. This was evident from a rich heritage of art, science, culture and architecture. The economy was strong – there was no begging as reported by the British traveller Macaulay himself in 1829. Poverty struck soon after the British led East India company started ruling the country and Dada Bhai Naroji described it in his book in 1870. In order to align the Indians with the British and alienate them from Indian culture and family values, Convents and English led education system was launched and propagated on the behest of Thomas Babington Macaulay, a British historian of Whig party, Secretary at War who studied at Trinity College Cambridge who stayed in India from 1834 to 1838. Such English educated men and women in India surely attained positions of power and strength but largely remained distant and alienated to Indian culture and value system. The teachings of science, engineering, medical subjects, architecture, nuclear science are mostly in English language until today. Constitution and laws are in English. Bureaucracy and judiciary function in English. There is no research journal, monographs and very few science books in any Indian language. Several Indian languages either died or are dying in Democratic Republic of India. As a result, a large number of people of India have been deprived of knowledge of modern science of Nature-Human-Society. None of the three Science Academies except the Indian Social Science Academy pleaded Science Education and Research in Indian languages. However, Prayag Vigyan Parishad was established in 1919 for promoting of Science Education in British India. Seventy five years of such a policy and only of late it was recognized that teaching science, technology, humanities in Indian languages shall create a human resource which will make India atmanirbhar.

Secondly, what efforts, so far, have been made to promote Science Education in vernacular or Indian languages?

Indian Social Science Academy focused the deliberations of XV Indian Social Science Congress on 'Society, Language and Development: Indian Context' in 1990 at Berhampur University, Orissa. Indian Social Science Academy (ISSA) tried to promote Science Education and Research in many Indian languages through State/Regional Conferences/Seminars/Symposia in Indian languages after its establishment on August 15, 1974. It set up its Regional Centres in West Bengal, Uttar Pradesh, Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Karnataka which organized conferences/seminars/symposia in Bengali, Hindi, Telugu, Kannada and Tamil. Alagappa University, Karaikudi gave it 2.5 acre land for construction of Tamil Nadu Social Science Centre and an old building - free from rent till the construction of new building. But no progress has been made till today. Initially, regional conferences were largely attended. But these have to be stopped as respective State Governments did not extend appropriate financial support. Later on, ISSA resolved to establish autonomous State Academy like Bengal Social Science Academy, Bihar Social Science Academy, U.P. Social Science Academy, M.P. Social Science Academy, Punjab Social Science Academy, Tamil Nadu Social Science Academy, Jammu and Kashmir Social Science Academy, etc. in all Indian States. Till date no satisfactory progress has been made. ISSA started publishing its Journal called Samayik Samajik Chintan in Hindi which became popular for some time only. It was difficult to continue to publish this because even the scientists of Hindi Speaking States wrote their research papers in English.

ISSA reconstituted subjects' committees of Indian Social Science Congress with Research Committees and Thematic Panels having members from all over India in a hope that each Research Committee shall translate and edit papers presented at Indian Social Science Congress in several Indian Languages. This too did not succeed as members of the Research Committees did not take much interest in this activity of translating the proceedings and manuscripts in respective regional languages. ISSA also set up National Translation Centre with a view to creating trained translators in Indian languages and sought collaborative support from several Indian Universities. This effort has also remained on paper. ISSA on its own does not have enough funds and resources to perform this yeoman task of translating science technology research manuscripts. The States and the Central Governments have not come forward in extending support for such an activity of publication of research journals, monographs and reference/text books in Indian languages.

It remains to be seen that New Education Policy 2020 will make all round effort to create Journals, magazines, textbooks and reference books in all Indian languages for better understanding of science, technology and humanities. This, of course, calls for massive efforts and funding.

Objectives

Deliberations on 'Science Education and Research in all Indian Languages' during the 48th Indian Social Science Congress seek to focus on the following:

1. To examine/assess the necessity, relevance and validity of shifting the well-established language policy of Science Education and Research in India from English to Indian Languages.
2. To assess the potentiality of each Indian Language for science education and research.
3. To assess the competence of teachers and students for teaching and doing research in each language.
4. To draw a roadmap for production of textbooks, reference books, monographs and research journals in each Indian language.
5. To work out plan for translation of research papers, monographs, books in English in all Indian Languages.
6. Any other

Questions

Scientists of all disciplines of Science, thinkers, philosophers, policy planners and social activists who think science education and research largely in Indian languages ought to be done, will need to answer the following questions :

1. Does Swaraj India need to say goodbye to Education and Research in English? If yes, why? If no, why? Or English language education should continue as such and Indian language education should exist in parallel?
2. Does Swaraj India need to switch over to education and research from English to all Indian languages or few Indian languages – which Indian languages should be taken up first?

3. Will commodified education in Swaraj India facilitate or block the project of education and research in all Indian languages? If yes, what to do?
4. What are the threats perceived when Science Education and research is done in Indian languages rather than only English language?
5. Will Central Government and respective State governments provide sufficient funds for translational work in Indian languages for implementation of the policy of Education and research in all Indian languages happily?
6. Will Central Government and respective State Governments facilitate appointments of faculty and staffs in Universities and Colleges for translation work in Indian languages?
7. Down the line private coaching centers, examination and selection boards, job oriented courses will also need to switch from English to Indian languages – is that feasible? Will that not lead to difficult inter-state employment opportunities? Will it not create problem of too much statehood?
8. Massive publications of text books, reference books, monographs and research journals in all Indian languages will be needed for education and research in all Indian languages. How to do it? What will be role of Central and State Governments in it?

Approach

Massive national, State, Regional and Local level deliberations on 'Science Education and Research in Indian Languages' ought to be held in most congenial, free and fearless environment. It involves huge financial and organizational support which the Indian Social Science Academy does not have. However, the Indian Social Science Academy does have nation-wide members and connection with universities, colleges and research institutes. It also has intra and interdisciplinary base essential for such deliberations. These deliberations have to be kept free of politics and fully devoted to science and methods of science.

Indian Social Science Academy, therefore, proposes to initiate a process on scientific deliberations on 'Science Education and Research in All Indian Languages' during the XLVIII Indian Social Science Congress in 2024-25 in a hope that all scholars speaking diverse languages, all political parties, State and Central Government, all science Academies, Sahitya Akademi, State Governments Academies, subjects, Associations shall join. ISSA will try to hold one national conference with all political parties in order to comprehend their thoughts and policies of Science Education and Research in Indian Languages.

ISSA will constitute a National Academic Advisory Committee comprising eminent scientists, thinkers, philosophers, policy makers and social activists. All the Vice-Chancellors, Directors of CSIR, ICMR, ICAR, DST, ICSSR institutes, Directors of ISERS, NISERS, AIIMS, PGIs, etc. too will be invited.

All the 28 subjects Research Committees and Thematic Panels will deliberate on it. Eight plenaries and several public lectures too shall deliberate on it. Besides, pre-post-XLVIII ISSC national, local and regional deliberations will be held.

Outcome and Plan of Publication

The outcome of the deliberations will be edited and published in several Indian Languages. This, however is possible only when central and state governments offer generous financial support.

It would be good to learn from Peoples Republic of China which translates research papers in English/French/German, etc in Chinese language prints and makes available to all universities/Chinese Academies/Research Institutes.

XLVIII INDIAN SOCIAL SCIENCE CONGRESS

XI All Indian Young Scientists Convention

Indian Social Science Academy (ISSA) was creating by young scientists of India on August 15, 1974 by then young scientists of India with a view to creating congenial environment within universities, colleges, IITs, Engineering and Medical College, National and Regional Research Institutes, Medical Colleges, PCIs, AIIMS etc. for flowering of creative/innovative potentialities of young scientists and stopping the Brain-drain necessary for achieving the objectives of 1958Parliament's Democratic Republic of India's self-reliant on its own indigenous Science and Technology necessary for enabling peoples of India to free from poverty, hunger, unemployment, etc. created by 200 years plus by the British. ISSA established Young Scientists Division enabling the young scientists to keep on deliberation and seeking solution of the same.

ISSA organises All India Young Scientists Convention during the Indian Social Science Congress.

The 11th All India Young Scientists Convention will be held during the 48th Indian Social Science Congress.

Instead of decreasing problems of younger scientists have increased manifold. Suicides by young scientists are increasing rapidly. Commodification of education in schools, colleges, universities accompanied by development of certificates/degrees all forms of so-called local/regional/national eligibility tests accompanied by murders of all forms of coaching cities are playing with the young scientists present and future both.

All the young scientists of India and senior scientists who can play enabling role are most welcome to put their thoughts and appropriate research paper are cordially invites to the 48th Indian Social Science Congress.

All are welcome to correspond with the following;

2. National Symposium on Commodification of Education and Its Impact on Creativity/Innovations

Indian Social Science Academy proposes to organize a preliminary National Symposium on 'Impact of Commodification of Educates on Education, Research and on Creativity / Innovations' during the 48th Indian Social Science Congress.

Process of commodification of Education of Health in Democratic Republic of India began with Liberalization, Privatization and Globalization in 1990. The Indian Democratic Government discarded its policy of promoting free and good education to all. Health and education became highly profitable new industries. Private Schools, Colleges and Universities began growing in geometrical order. New Education Policy supporting it was launched 2020. Certificates and degrees were replaced by all kinds of admission and selection test, Coaching Centers.

Three and half decades have passed since then. Question arises: Has Commodification of education improved quality of Education and research in Democratic Republic of ? Is Democratic Republic of India now self-reliant on its indigenous S &T? Are the students very happy with it? Is there any connection between commodification of education and growing suicides and unrest in Universities, Colleges, Schools etc?

All those who think and do research on it are cordially invited to submit their thought provoking papers and participate in the proposed National Symposium to be held during the 48th Indian Social Science Congress. Further details can be had from the following:

Special State Level Conference on Correlating Science and Technology Education and Research with the Developmental needs and Aspirations of the Peoples of Chhattisgarh

It is proposed to organise a Chhattisgarh State Level conference on 'Correlating Science Education and Research with the Developmental Needs and Aspiration of Peoples of Chhattisgarh' during the 48th Indian Social Science Congress with a view to understanding connection between education and research in Chhattisgarh universities, colleges, institutes etc and developmental needs and aspirations of Peoples of Chhattisgarh.

Background and Rationale

Chhattisgarh, formed on 1 November 2000, has recently completed twenty-five years of statehood. It is one of India's richest states in natural resources, with extensive forests, major reserves of coal, iron ore, bauxite, limestone and tin, and a strong industrial base symbolised by the Bhilai Steel Plant in Durg district itself. It is also celebrated as the "rice bowl" of Central India and is home to a large Scheduled Tribe population, concentrated in Bastar, Surguja and other forested regions, with rich languages and knowledge traditions of their own.

Over the past two decades the state has built a substantial science and technology education and research ecosystem: state universities, an IIT at Bhilai, NIT Raipur, AIIMS Raipur, Indira Gandhi Krishi Vishwavidyalaya, a technical university, medical and engineering colleges, and research institutions. Yet a persistent question remains: to what extent does this knowledge system respond to the lived realities, needs and aspirations of the people of Chhattisgarh — the farmer, the forest dweller, the industrial worker, the first-generation learner and the young aspirant seeking dignified work?

Several gaps call for serious interdisciplinary reflection. Science is taught and researched largely in English, while most learners think and live in Hindi, Chhattisgarhi, Gondi, Halbi, Kurukh and other languages. Indigenous knowledge of agriculture, forests, health and materials is rarely recognised as science. Industrial and mining growth has generated wealth but also displacement, environmental stress and uneven benefits. Regional disparities in learning outcomes, health and nutrition, and digital access persist. Research priorities are often set elsewhere and seldom reach the village, the forest or the factory floor.

The focal theme of the 48th Congress, "Science Education and Research in Indian Languages", provides an especially fitting frame. Science that is taught, researched and communicated in the people's own languages is more likely to be understood, owned and used by them. Holding the Congress in Durg, at the heart of Chhattisgarh, offers a rare opportunity to bring scientists, social scientists, educators, policy-makers and community representatives together to examine this relationship with evidence from the state.

Relevance to the Focal Theme of the Congress

- It directly addresses how science and technology education in Indian and tribal languages can improve access, comprehension and innovation among the people of a specific state.
- It treats Nature–Human–Society as an integrated whole, in keeping with the vision of ISSA, by linking the natural sciences, technology and the social sciences around real development problems.
- It connects national policy (NEP 2020's emphasis on mother-tongue instruction and Indian knowledge systems) with state-level experience and grassroots evidence.
- It gives voice to local researchers, teachers and young scientists of Chhattisgarh within a national academic forum.

Objectives

1. To critically assess the present state of science and technology education and research in Chhattisgarh and its relationship with the state's development trajectory.
2. To examine the role of Hindi, Chhattisgarhi and tribal languages in science teaching, research communication and public understanding of science.
3. To identify the development needs and aspirations of different sections of the people — tribal communities, farmers, workers, women and youth — and the extent to which current research addresses them.
4. To explore ways of documenting, validating and integrating indigenous knowledge systems of the region into formal science education and research, with due respect for community rights.
5. To bring together evidence on technology, industry, mining, environment, health and digital access in relation to equity and sustainability.
6. To formulate concrete, actionable recommendations for universities, research institutions, the State Government and ISSA.

Sub-themes

Papers and discussions are invited on, but not limited to, the following sub-themes:

No.	Sub-theme	Indicative Issues
1	Mother-tongue and tribal-language science education	Teaching science and mathematics in Chhattisgarhi, Gondi, Halbi, Kurukh, Sadri and other languages; bilingual textbooks and glossaries; NEP 2020 and foundational learning; learning outcomes of tribal children in Bastar and Surguja.
2	Indigenous knowledge systems as science	Traditional agriculture, rice diversity, forest-based medicine, ethno-botany, water harvesting and craft technologies (e.g. dhokra metal-casting, kosa silk); methods to document, validate and integrate them into curricula with community consent.

No.	Sub-theme	Indicative Issues
3	Research for development: aligning priorities with people	How far university, IIT, NIT, AIIMS, IGKV and CSIR research in the state responds to local needs; participatory and action research; people's science movements; research translation into policy.
4	Agriculture, forests and livelihoods	Climate-resilient paddy and millet systems, minor forest produce value chains, farmer producer organisations, extension in local languages, food and nutrition security.
5	Industry, mining and the human question	Technology in steel, coal, iron-ore and power sectors; displacement, rehabilitation and benefit-sharing; occupational health; environmental monitoring; skilling of local youth for industry.
6	Health, nutrition and public-health technologies	Malaria, sickle-cell disease, anaemia and malnutrition; telemedicine and community health workers (Mitanin programme); health communication in local languages.
7	Digital technology, access and the aspiration gap	Connectivity in remote districts, digital public infrastructure, e-governance, AI and language technology for Chhattisgarhi and tribal languages; digital divide by gender, caste, tribe and region.
8	Aspirations of youth, women and communities	Survey-based evidence on what people of Chhattisgarh want from education and technology; employment, migration and dignity; role of women in science and in local innovation.

Key Questions for Deliberation

- Does the growth of S&T institutions in Chhattisgarh translate into improved livelihoods, health, learning and well-being for its people?
- What are the barriers — linguistic, economic, social and institutional — that prevent rural and tribal learners from entering and succeeding in science?
- How can research agendas be co-designed with communities so that local aspirations shape scientific priorities?
- How can the benefits of mineral and industrial wealth be shared more equitably through technology, skills and knowledge?
- What institutional mechanisms can link universities, government departments, industry and panchayats for problem-driven research?

Participants and Resource Persons

The conference will draw participants from the natural science, engineering, agriculture, medicine, education, economics, sociology, anthropology, geography, political science, linguistics and management. The following categories of resource persons are proposed (names to be finalised in consultation with ISSA):

INDIAN SOCIAL SCIENCE ACADEMY

The Indian Social Science Academy (ISSA when abbreviated) is the first National Science Academy of independent Democratic Republic of India and fourth in chronicle order. The other three National Science Academies—Indian National Science Academy (INSA), Indian Academy of Sciences (IAS) and National Science Academy of India (NSAI) were born in British India. ISSA was born, 52 years ago, on August 15, 1974 at University of Allahabad in an assembly of young scientists. August 15, 1974 symbolizes a beginning of an altogether new science reflecting democratic values, needs, aspirations, creative urges / potentialities, history, culture and traditions of peoples of India. Its name was carefully chosen for reflecting the true meaning and function of science. The setting up of the Indian Social Science Academy also heralded a beginning of a new movement for unity of science of Nature-Humans-Society by forging unity among all branches of science. Many described it as a barometer of science and society in India, in particular and world in general. In more than one sense ISSA is a unique body in the whole world. Today the Indian Social Science Academy is unique among all Science Academies in the world as it brings all subjects of science under one umbrella.

Science means objective knowledge of non-living and living things / objects and knowledge means answer to questions 'what', 'how' and 'why', about a thing / object. The word 'Nature' connotes all forms of objects / things / matter including humans and societies. Nature-Humans-Society form one single continuum. So division of science into physics, chemistry, biology, environment, ecology, agriculture, medical, social, historical etc., is artificial and all such divisions provide partial objective knowledge of Nature-Humans-Society. Unity of Science of Nature-Humans-Society, therefore, is necessary for having correct and full understanding of Nature-Human-Society science. Thus, viewed science is unitary as well as uniting.

The Science as an objective knowledge of non-living and living objects / things / matter is produced through collective mental and physical labour of men and women. What is the result of collective labour is termed as social and what is social is public and not private. Science, therefore, is social. It springs in society comprising men and women. Because it is social it has social functions. It has the prime role in enabling men and women to enjoy higher quality of material, social and cultural life in harmony with Nature. However, all such social functions of science filter through different groups in the society because of which one doesn't find one-to-one relationship between science and conditions of all men and women of all societies. Humans' inability to create a science-based society is well reflected in modern societies all over the world.

The Indian Social Science Academy seeks to discover, develop and disseminate science of Nature-Humans-Society in Indian conditions in particular, and world conditions in general, with a mission to build a new Democratic Republic of India few world over where there is no hunger, no poverty, no unemployment, no illiteracy, no disease, no bigotry, no superstitions, no communalism, no casteism and no discrimination of any form and where all men, women and children enjoy equally good quality of material, social, cultural and spiritual life in harmony with Nature without any kind of fear of violence, rape and murder. Its mission in pursuing science of Nature-Human-Society is for creating an altogether new world order which is free from hunger, poverty, diseased, hatred and war and which is rooted in princi-ples of reciprocity, equality, freedom and fraternity.

'Love to All, Prejudice None' is the Philosophy of Science which guides all scientific pursuits of ISSA. ISSA urges all scientists to puruse science without politics.

Founders of the Indian Social Science Academy thought that science can benefit the peoples of a given society only when it is taught, researched and communicated in their own language. Communication of scientific research and science education in people's own language, therefore, is key to the unfolding of creative potentialities of peoples and benefiting them. Unfortunately, even after 75 years of independence science in India is communicated through English. The end result is peoples of India who fund all scientific research are deprived of its benefits. The creativity in science in India is continuously declining. The Indian Social Science Academy., therefore, seeks to change it by creating necessary conditions for communication of scientific research and science education in Indian languages involving publication of research journals, monographs, books, etc., in all Indian languages.

All branches of science as mentioned below constitute the Indian Social Science Academy:

1. Agricultural Science 2. Anthropology, 3. Archaeology, History and Culture, 4. Biological or Life Science, 5. Biotechnology, 6. Chemical Science, 7. Commerce, 8. Communication And Journalism, 9. Computer Science, 10. Earth Science (Oceanic Sc. Marine Sc., Atmospheric Science etc)and Planetary Science, 11. Ecological And Environmental Science, 12. Economics, 13. Education, 14. Engineering Science and Technology, 15. Geography, 16. Home Science, 17. International Relations Studies& Defence Strategic Studies, 18. Juridical Science, 19. Linguistics, 20. Management Science, 21. Mathematics And Statistics, 22. Medical And Health Science, 23. Philosophy, 24. Physics, 25. Political Science, 26. Psychology, 27. Social Work, 28. Sociology

Besides, policy planners, development agents and social activists having concern for science-based pursuits also find welcome place in the Indian Social Science Academy. Thus the Indian Social Science Academy is all embracing and all encompassing within the framework of science.

The Indian Social Science Academy pursues the following activities for realizing its goal:

1. Indian Social Science Congress
2. Network of State Centres / State level Academies for promotion of Science education and research in all Indian languages
3. State level Social Science Congress in languages of respective States
4. Research and Training Centres
   - (I) Rural Development Centres
   - (II) Survey Research Centres
   - (III) ISSA Silver Jubilee Peoples Science Centre for Theoretical and Policy Research
5. Research Journals and Newsletters
   - (I) Bharatiya Samajik Chintan (English)
   - (II) Samayik Samajik Chintan (Hindi)
   - (III) Nature-Human-Society Science Journal
   - (IV) ISSA Newsletter
6. Young Scientist Division
7. All India Young Scientists Convention
8. Publication of Books / Monographs in Indian Languages
9. Communication of Science to the People
10. Science Library
11. Local / regional / national / international seminars / symposia / colloquia / public lectures / Group discussions
12. Networking with universities, colleges, research institutes, agriculture and industries.
13. National Science Translation Centre for production of scientific literature in all Indian languages.

Although the Government of India provides grant to all Science Academies including those which were set up after ISSA, yet the ISSA is not considered worth funding by the Government. End result is frustrating as ISSA is unable to carry forward all its programmes smoothly and rapidly.

(A book on 'History of March of Indian Social Science Academy on Tortuous Road to New Paradigm of Science of Nature-Human-Society', published during Golden Jubilee of ISSA describes its history of 50 years in details).

DURG: A CONFLUENCE OF HERITAGE, EDUCATION AND INDUSTRY

Durg, located in the heart of Chhattisgarh, is a vibrant district known for its rich cultural heritage, educational institutions and industrial development. Together with neighbouring Bhilai, it forms an important educational and industrial hub of Central India, making it an appropriate setting for the 48th Indian Social Science Conference.

The region has been significantly shaped by the Bhilai Steel Plant, which contributed to its economic growth and the emergence of a diverse, cosmopolitan society. Durg and Bhilai also constitute an important educational hub having IIT, several universities, colleges and professional institutions, fostering a strong environment for technical education, higher education, research and intellectual exchange.

Durg's identity is deeply rooted in the traditions of Chhattisgarh, reflected in its folk arts, music, dance, festivals and warm hospitality. Visitors can also explore attractions such as Maitri Bagh, Tandula Reservoir and several temples and heritage sites in and around the region.

Nearby Tourist Places

Maitri Bagh, Bhilai (about 9 km from Durg): A popular zoo-cum-children's park with a lake, gardens, toy train and musical fountain; the white tiger is a major attraction.

Shri Uwassaggaharam Parshwa Tirth, Nagpura (about 15 km from Durg): A serene Jain pilgrimage centre on the banks of the Shivnath River, known for its temple, gardens and natural surroundings.

Deobaloda (near Durg–Bhilai): A heritage site associated with an ancient Shiva temple, suitable for participants interested in the region's archaeological and religious heritage.

Tandula Dam / Reservoir (about 58 km from Durg): A scenic water-reservoir destination, particularly attractive around sunrise and sunset, and suitable for a short nature outing.

Ganga Maiya Temple, Jhalmala (around the Balod–Durg route): A well-known religious and cultural site situated on the Balod–Durg road.

Rajim (a longer day excursion from Durg): Known for its ancient temples and the Triveni Sangam of the Mahanadi, Pairi and Sondur rivers.

Sirpur (a longer day excursion from Durg): An important archaeological and cultural destination, particularly noted for the historic Lakshman Temple and Buddhist heritage.

These destinations offer delegates a mix of nature, heritage, spirituality and local culture. Travel times and accessibility may vary depending on traffic and local conditions. Well connected by rail and road, and located close to Raipur, Durg offers delegates a comfortable and enriching experience. The district beautifully represents the interaction of tradition and modernity, society and industry, and education and development.
